EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 13 2022
THROUGH
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15 2022

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

The 2022 CCAA Fall Educational Conference will be held at the Delta Hotel. It is a Marriott property located in Bristol, VA. They are 18 miles from Tri-Cities Airport (TRI) in Blountville, TN.

Sunday evening is the Welcome Reception. Enjoy good food and drink. Renew acquaintances that have suffered from the pandemic. Network with your fellow inspectors.

Monday morning November 15th is the start of the business portion of our conference. Introductions and brief updates on the Crane Surveyor's Handbook and the Online Certifying Crane Surveyor's program will start the day.

The first presentation will be by Dave Wood, WHECO Worldwide Services. Dave is a current Board Member of our Association. He's been in the heavy equipment industry for over 40 years. He served as president of WHECO for 30 years stepping down in 2020 to allow a younger group to start the transitioning of WHECO to the next generation. He remains a partner in WHECO, and sits on the Board of Directors to offer input and direction to the company. Dave will be talking about Proper Crane Repair.

The next portion of the program will be Gail Lowney Alofsin, previewed in our last newsletter, presenting her famous "Building A Culture of Success". Tadano will have 10 of their personnel present for this portion of the program.

After lunch Julie Fuller, President & COO of Tadano Mantis Corp. will give us an introduction to what we'll see and hear at the new plant. We'll then buss over to the Richlands Plant.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Julie Fuller

President & COO, Tadano Mantis Corp

Julie Fuller officially joined Tadano in 2008 with the acquisition of SpanDeck, Inc. and its Mantis line of telescopic boom crawler cranes. After nearly 12 years with the company, holding various roles from design & engineering to global marketing, she was promoted to President & Chief Operating Officer of Tadano Mantis in April 2020.

Her over 25-year career has focused on crawler cranes, particularly the new models of the Tadano GTC line. The Mantis telescopic boom crawler debuted in 1979, and she began working for the brand's parent company in 1995 as a design engineer. She was promoted to Engineering Manager in 1999 and rose to Vice President of Engineering in 2006. Upon Tadano's acquiring of Mantis two years later, she became General Manager of Engineering. Working with the engineering teams at Tadano Ltd., she led development of the new GTC teleboom crawler series beginning in 2012. In 2014, she was promoted to Vice President of Engineering and Purchasing, added Marketing responsibilities in 2018, and finally became President & COO of her division in 2020.

Fuller's development work includes the 130-ton capacity GTC-1200, which was introduced in 2014 as the largest purpose-built telescopic boom crawler with a full power boom. The GTC-1200 won the LLEAP Award that year for Outstanding Model Introduction. 5 additional GTC models and 2 more LLEAP awards followed, including the GTC-1600, a 160-ton capacity crane introduced at ConExpo 2020 in Las Vegas, and launched in August of 2021.

Fuller holds several patents, with additional ones pending. She's served on numerous committees, including Vice-Chair of The Utility Expo Show (formerly the ICUEE Show); AEM's Technical Crane Committee; SAE CLDC (Crane & Lifting Devices Committee); and AEM Membership Committee.

She enjoys hiking, reading, gardening, and especially travel, including visits to sites where cranes she's had a hand in creating and building are hard at work constructing important pieces of infrastructure.

Fuller holds a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering from Tennessee Tech University.
